

UTAH DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION
TRAFFIC OPERATIONS CENTER

07:07 PM Sunday, November 07, 2010

Winter Weather Alert

Rain begins early Monday morning across northern Utah. A front will pass midmorning, lowering temperatures and bringing snow to Wasatch Mountain roads, including Parleys Summit. During heavier snowfall, some slush will build up on the roads. This will happen mostly between 10 am and 3 pm. Valley roads will be wet through dark. See forecast graphic below.

NOTE: Snow will lower to the valley floor Monday just after sunset. The graphic below only goes through 6pm. This forecast will be updated Monday midmorning. Stay tuned!

